¶1. (S/NF) Summary. A lawyer's visit to Roxana Saberi on March 9 indicated Ms. Saberi was encouraged by news of efforts being made on her behalf, but is generally distraught at her situation. According to UK Embassy Tehran, the charges against Ms Saberi were brought in by a court which tries national security matters; she is alleged to have filed news stories after her Iran press accreditation was pulled in 2006. Friends of Ms. Saberi's have expressed their personal concern to Embassy London and have passed to Poloff supportive e-mails about Ms Saberi said to be from Iranian Ambassador to Japan Araghchi and from a former USG official, and well known author, not personally known to Poloff. End summary

FCO Not Optimistic

¶2. (S/NF) FCO contacts on March 12 and 13 told Poloff UK Embassy Tehran expects, based on feedback from Saberi's lawyer, that her release is "not imminent." FCO contacts told Poloff that both MFA and the judiciary have said Saberi's arrest stemmed from a writ issued by the Revolutionary Court, which tries national security offenses. FCO contacts said the UK Embassy is expecting to have contact with Ms. Saberi's lawyer in the coming days.

Ms. Saberi's UK-Based Friends Reach Out

¶3. (S/NF) The lawyer for detained American citizen Roxana Saberi visited her in Evin Prison on March 9, according to a telephone call London Iran Watcher (Poloff) received March 11 (ref a) from a dual American-Iranian citizen working for BBC-Persian. The U.S. citizen BBC caller, previously known to Poloff, passed on that, according to Saberi's lawyer, Ms. Saberi is emotionally distraught, but also somewhat encouraged by efforts being made on her behalf by USG and (unspecified) others.

¶4. (SBU) Poloff's BBC contact said she was calling as a private citizen and expressed concern for the welfare of Ms. Saberi, whom she described as a close friend. Poloff reiterated the concerns for Ms. Saberi's safety publicly expressed by the Secretary, that protection of American citizens abroad is the USG's highest priority, and that Ms. Saberi, her dual nationality notwithstanding, is entitled to the full range of USG protection and advocacy enjoyed by all U.S. citizens.

¶5. (S/NF) The BBC contact said her information on Saberi's arrest status came via a UK citizen, a London-based fund manager, who is also a friend of Saberi, who has been in direct touch with Saberi's lawyer. Poloff asked that any and all information on Saberi's situation and welfare be shared.

¶6. (S/NF) The BBC contact on March 13 told Poloff she and the UK fund manager and other friends of Saberi began receiving "spam" e-mails from Saberi's e-mail address after February 1: the contact thought the e-mails might have been manipulated by regime authorities. The BBC contact noted the e-mails used poor English, using Iranian-style syntax, and that the last e-mail the BBC contact had received that she thought was clearly from Roxana herself had been January 29.

Her Friends Know Araghchi

¶7. (S/NF) The BBC contact noted that the fund manager is not herself Iranian but had, as a private student in 2006, studied at a Tehran think tank associated with Iran's Foreign Ministry (she was uncertain of the name or acronym), and that the fund manager's tutor is now Iran's Ambassador to Japan, Syed Abbas Araghchi.

¶8. (S/NF) The fund manager, who called Poloff March 16, also forwarded to Poloff an e-mail (ref c) she said she had received March 9 from Ambassador Araghchi. Araghchi's e-mail says: "I fully understand your sympathy and concerns about Roxana. Good news are coming And I am confident she will be freed soon (sic)."

Bob Baer Reportedly Says
IRI Gesture is in the Works

¶9. (S/NF) The fund manager also forwarded to Poloff an e-mail (ref c) she had received March 10, apparently from former USG official and author Bob Baer; Baer's e-mail states "Iranians will release her in a gesture to the U.S., especially as Afghan talks get under way. Any relevant updates I will send through (sic). We are very anxious that Roxana be released as soon as possible and let me know if I can help in any way."

Comment

¶10. (S/NF) UK Embassy's informal focus on the Saberi case appears to be active and continuing, despite the ending last week of Ambassador Adam's tour in Iran; FCO contacts March 13 told Poloff that IRI authorities have granted "agreement" for incoming Ambassador Simon Gass, who is due to arrive in Tehran in mid-April. Celebrations of the Persian New Year, which begin this week and traditionally continue in Iran to the end of March, conceivably may delay the regime's decision process.

¶11. (S/NF) Embassy can neither directly assess Baer's statement nor predict with precision what role if any Ambassador Araghchi may be playing as the Iranian regime considers its detention of Ms. Saberi. Araghchi, by reputation a moderate, able, and respected diplomat, and described by his former pupil, the London fund manager, as "a wonderful man," was briefly mentioned (ref b), in connection with Qalibaf's Japan visit last fall. While Araghchi was Deputy Foreign Minister (2006-2007) there was speculation in the press and among some Poloff contacts that policy tensions between Araghchi and Ahmedinejad contributed to Araghchi's subsequent posting to Tokyo. Araghchi's relationship to his former students (the fund manager and the AmCit BBC contact) appears cordial.
